

Bianco Lasa Marble is an Italian white marble with medium variations in shades of gray and white. It is available in tiles and recommended for countertops, walls, and flooring. Bianco Lasa Marble is characteristically homogenous, with a white to grey ground color, shining grains and smoky grey veins, which run through the stone rather irregularly. The different quality of this marble depends on its ground color. The veined types of Lasa Marble include bands of quartz and mica, traces of sulfur, magnesium, strontium, titanium, silicon, gold, silver and platinum, as well as extremely small amounts of uranium and thorium.
